As of July 23, 2010, Program Directors and Principal Investigators will no longer be able to enter publication citations manually into eRA Commons and must use My NCBI’s “My Bibliography” tool to manage their professional bibliographies. This session addressed how to use “My Bibliography” and how it can help PD/PIs to remain compliant with the NIH PubMed Policy that requires PubMed Central (PMC) reference numbers on all NIH progress reports, proposals and grant applications when citing papers arising from NIH awards.

This was a live demo and therefore no power point slides were generated for this Brown Bag session. However, information can be found at the following link:
