FUNDING

Two-year awards provide an annual stipend of 125% of the current 3rd or 4th year NIH level and institutional fringe benefits, plus operational support of $10,000, and a travel and conference fund of up to $3,500, annually. Fellowships are expected to start between July 1, 2019 and October 1, 2019.

NOMINATION LIMITATION

Yale University may nominate two (2) candidates from the School of Medicine and two (2) candidates from the Faculty of Arts & Sciences.

PURPOSE

The Senior Fellowships Postdoctoral Fellows program supports third and fourth year postdoctoral researchers engaged in experimental basic research in any area of biomedical science. The Fellowship is intended for candidates finishing their initial projects and establishing themselves as independent researchers. Candidates must apply under the guidance of a sponsor – a scientist (tenured, tenure-track or equivalent) capable of providing mentorship to the Fellow. The sponsor should be actively engaged in the planning, execution, and supervision of the proposed research, and encourage fellows to report the results of research in scientific journals and meetings.

ELIGIBILITY

- Eligibility is open to candidates who have completed the MD and/or PhD degrees or their equivalents.

- Candidates must have started their postdoctoral training in basic biomedical research at Yale between June 1, 2016 and August 31, 2017.

- Eligibility is open to U.S. citizens and legal residents as well as non-citizens with appropriate visa documentation valid for the entire duration of the fellowship. The Foundation will not make an award without appropriate visa documentation.

- Candidates are required to devote 100% of their effort to the research outlined in their application.
